Nicol was twelve years old when a tornado destroyed her village...

Last August, I was helping my mum in the garden. It was six o'clock in the evening when the weather changed. It became very windy. Things were flying everywhere. We ran inside and turned on the light. Suddenly, it all went dark.

We looked out of the window and saw a tornado moving towards our village. I was very scared. When it reached the village, there was a lot of noise. The house was moving and things were falling. We sat on the ground and waited. After five minutes, everything became quiet again.

Later, we went outside. There were broken houses everywhere. We used to put our car in a garage next to the house. But there was no garage and no car. There used to be a beautiful tower in the centre of the village. It wasn't there anymore. People were running and shouting. It was a terrible experience. But we were lucky because nobody died.

- 16. What was Nicol doing before the tornado?
- A She was gardening.
 - B She was playing in the garden.
 - C She was helping her mum in the house.
- 17. What happened when the weather changed?

A Trip to New York

My name is Esther. Last holiday, I was in the US. The journey by plane was long and tiring. The plane ticket was quite expensive. It took me 10 hours to get to the New York airport.

My friend, Kate was there waiting for me. I was surprised by the size of the JFK airport. It was huge and there were many people. I was glad my friend was there, otherwise I would probably get lost.

Later, we were in a cab. It was a typical NY cab – big and yellow. We were in the car for an hour. There were poor, rundown neighbourhoods and rich, luxurious ones. The city centre was fantastic. There were huge skyscrapers and big roundabouts. The largest and busiest roundabout was the famous Columbus Circle. There was also an enormous traffic jam.

We went to Kate's apartment to leave the luggage and rest a bit. It was small and cosy with a nice view of the park. I was not very tired so I went to see the biggest fountain in New York. It was the Bethesda Fountain in Central Park. There weren't many people in the park because it was still early in the morning.

Later, we had lunch and were at some nice museums. In the evening, we were at Times Square. There were hundreds of people, huge neon lights, billboards and advertisements. There weren't any cars because it was a holiday and the square was closed to traffic. I was amazed! We also were in one of the Broadway theatres to see a musical. It was great!

The Stone Age

The Stone Age started around 2.5 million years ago when early humans first produced the first stone tools. The Stone Age is split into three different parts: the Palaeolithic (Old Stone Age), the Mesolithic (Middle Stone Age) and the Neolithic (New Stone Age).

During the Old Stone Age, humans evolved from Neanderthals and other groups into homo sapiens (modern humans). People survived by gathering wild nuts, fruits and berries. They also hunted wild animals. The tradition was that women did the gathering and men did the hunting. When the food ran out, these hunter-gatherers moved on.

The Middle Stone Age began at the end of the last Ice Age when sea levels rose and Britain became an island. In the New Stone Age, the way people live changed significantly. People began building settlements instead of moving from place to place. They built walls around their settlements to protect themselves and started to grow their own crops and domesticate animals. Tools for grinding, cutting and chopping were also introduced. People used bones for fish hooks so that they could catch fish as well as animals.

Read and choose the correct answer for each question.

Adventure sports like hang gliding and skydiving are becoming more popular. People pay a lot of money to take part in these sports, jumping off cliffs and out of planes with only wings and parachutes to stop them crashing to the ground. Strangest of all are the bungee jumpers. They jump off towers and high bridges with only a long piece of elastic rope tied to their feet to stop their fall.

At a bungee-jumping tower in London which is 100 metres high, the highest bungee jump in the world – attracts 10 000 customers a year, waiting in line to make the leap from the top. The oldest bungee jumper who have jumped from the tower is seventy-five years old.

Why do people pay a lot of money to this? Well, people have always dreamed of flying like birds. Perhaps these sports are a way of making that dream comes true. Maybe modern life has become too boring for some people and they are just looking for some excitement in their lives. Although these sports may look dangerous, in fact there are far more accidents on the road than accidents involving adventure sports.

Schools in China are using robots to check students for signs of Covid-IQ. Before entering the classroom, the robot checks the children's temperature and scans their faces for signs of illness. But China's schools aren't the only places using robots during the Coronavirus crisis. Robots are being used in many places around the world.

Hospitals are using robots to deliver medication to patients infected with Covid-IQ, and to bring blood samples to laboratories. Some robots sanitize hospital rooms.

In the US and UK, robots deliver food and other necessary items to people in quarantine. In Dubai, robots travel around the city spraying disinfectant. And a robot in Singapore reminds people in parks to stand at least one metre apart from each other.

In Tokyo, robots even help out at a virtual graduation. A few robots – with tablets for faces, attending the graduation ceremony. The graduates watch the ceremony from home, using a video-conferencing program. When a graduate is called up to receive his degree, his face appears on a robot's tablet. When the robot rolls over to receive the degree, the graduate is there to accept it virtually.

What's another benefit of using robots in the fight against Covid-IQ? When robots are tired, you just recharge them and send them back to work.

OUR FUTURE

Will there be schools in the future?

Yes, children will still go to school, but schools will be very different. There will still be teachers, but computers will teach some lessons. Some students will stay at home and learn in virtual classrooms. Virtual reality will give them an image of a classroom in three dimensions (3D). They will see their teacher and friends, so they will feel like they are really at school.

Will computers understand what we say to them?

Computers will be more intelligent. They will understand what we say, what we think and how we feel. In the future, humans and computers will be part of a huge radio network. We will send messages from our brain to our computer and the computer will send messages straight to our brain, without using wires. When you want to learn something new, your computer will send the information straight to your brain.

What will clothes be like?

In a few years there will be clothes with soft TV screens in them. You will be able to change the pattern in your T-shirt. You will be able to show music videos on your clothes while you are dancing. Before long, there will be jackets with soft watches on the sleeves.

Will we have robots to help us?

In the future, we will have lots of very clever robots called nanobots. Nanobots will be very small, but they will be everywhere. They will clean our homes, mend our clothes and make our meals.

Questions 16 to 20

Read and answer the questions that follow.

How to write songs

- 1 Before you start writing the lyrics, think of a title for your song. If you're writing a song about the future, use a title such as Look at the Future or What the Future Brings.
 - 2 Find a tune for your song and make sure it's catchy! If you play the guitar, choose three notes – play the notes again and again to find a tune.
 - 3 Think of a good beat for your song. What type of beat is it going to have? Are you going to choose a reggae beat or a traditional beat?
 - 4 So, now you have got a title, a tune and a beat. Next, write the first three verses. You can begin with the topic of the song, fun words like la la la.
 - 5 Then, you should think of a good chorus. A chorus is a verse that is repeated many times. It usually has the title of the song and it should be about the topic.
 - 6 Next, write the 'bridge' – this goes the third verse. The bridge sounds different to the rest of the song. It has sometimes got a different rhythm, too.
 - 7 Finally, you should repeat the chorus one last time... and then your song will be ready.

When you start writing a song, always finish it.

You can change the lyrics later.

Read. For each question, choose the correct answer.

One kind of music that many people never experience is opera. The word 'opera' means 'work' in Italian. Opera is more than just music. It is an event you hear, see, feel and remember.

First, if you go to the opera, you will certainly hear music. The music comes from a group of people who play many different kinds of musical instruments. Typically, there are string instruments and wind instruments along with drums. Together, these instruments create music that has the power to tell a story and influence the feelings of the audience. But the music is not the only thing that you hear at the opera. At the opera, performers sing in addition to the musicians who play the instruments. But what do they sing?

Opera singers tell a story through their songs. The story is sometimes told by characters singing to the audience. But more often, the characters in the opera sing to each other, like characters in a play speak to each other.

Usually the story in an opera is about something sad that happens. Also, the words of the song are often in a language other than English. This is because opera started in Italy. However, operas are also done in French and Russian, too. If you do not know the language, it is important that you read about the story before you go. That way, you can follow the story on stage. You can also use the feeling of the music to help you understand what is happening on the stage. So in this way, opera is not mainly music, but it is also a story, like a play.

21. What is the text about?
 - A How opera began
 - B What happens at an opera
 - C Musical instruments in an opera
22. The music in the opera comes from a group of musicians _____.
 - A speaking to each other in songs
 - B telling a story through their songs
 - C playing different kinds of musical instruments
23. How do the characters in the opera perform?
 - A Singing to each other
 - B Speaking to each other
 - C Talking to the audience
24. The story in an opera is usually about something _____.
 - A unforgettable
 - B happened in Italy
 - C sad that happens
25. Why is it important to read the story before you go to watch an opera?
 - A So that you can understand the language.
 - B So that you can understand the story well.
 - C So that you have feelings for the music.

Young blog writers

Cindy

I began writing for a school magazine. I stopped after a few months but I missed it, so I started my own – I'm still writing it now! The blog's new for me, and I write about fun days. I get ideas from friends or my sister when I can't decide what to write about – we always think of something interesting, funny or happy. At first, almost nobody visited my site, but now more do. I've had some lovely comments.

Tina

Last year I wrote an article for my school magazine, which I found really difficult, but I don't think it's hard to write a good blog. Mine is about things from daily life that make me laugh. My younger sister also has a blog, but we're writing about different subjects. We don't discuss what we're planning, but we read each other blogs sometimes. I like giving advice to people who write blogs – it's good to know I've helped.

Danny

I started writing my popular holiday blog last year. I like it when readers send me articles by email about new places they've visited, and I put on my blog for everyone to read. I'm still schooling, so I'm careful about spending too long on my blog, which is difficult as writing well takes time. I don't think I'll write it for much longer. I'm busy, and it's time to do something new.

Drawing Competition

Gombak Community Hall (Saturday, 1 May)

Age: 10 – 15 years old

Last day to register: 25 April

- ※ All participants will receive a pack of masks.
- ※ Cash prizes for the winners
- ※ More information, please visit www.challdrawing.com.my

Hi, Jien Wei. Shall we sign up for the drawing competition? Last year my sister won a consolation prize, but now she's 16 and she can't participate. Even if we don't win anything, it'll be lots of fun.

I'm going to register tomorrow, so let me know and I'll put your name down, too.

I suggest we go by LRT on the day of competition as the car park will be crowded.

That was a cold and stormy night. Everybody went to bed earlier than usual, but I decided to stay in the living room reading my new novel about mystery.

Suddenly, something happened in the kitchen. I heard a strange noise. I stood up and went rapidly to see what was happening. I couldn't see anything out of the ordinary. Everything was calm and quiet. I came back to the living room and kept on reading my book. When I opened the second page, I heard a noise coming from the front window and a shadow disappearing in the night. When I looked through the window, I saw nobody.

It was a very rare night. Every time I tried to read my book, something inexplicable happened. Was the mysterious novel becoming true? I examined everywhere in the living room. I was trying to find the odd thing that was producing the strange noises but I could find nothing... Finally, I decided to go to bed and forget about that scary night.

Hi! I'm Nelly. I love my new smartphone. My Dad bought it when I left home a fortnight ago to study in a boarding school. I always carry my phone with me. Well, who doesn't?

Last night, I went out with my friend, Linda. There was a comedian at the mall and we really wanted to see him. He was so funny! I decided to text my Mum and tell her about it. I opened my bag to get my phone, but it wasn't there. I checked my pockets, but no luck. I looked around the place we were standing. Next, I checked the toilet, but I couldn't find it.

I borrowed Linda's phone and I gave myself a call. Someone picked up the call and answered. The voice was deep and raspy. He just gave a horrible laugh, and then hung up. I tried calling three more times, but no one picked up. Eventually, I gave up and accepted someone had stolen my phone. I was really upset.

I went back to the hostel at about 10 p.m., feeling sad and also mad at myself. I went straight to my room. When I opened my room's door, the first thing I saw was my phone! There it was as large as life, on my bedside table. I felt uneasy and wished to turn and run...
